How to access BMJ Learning via IP range

Getting started with BMJ Learning is quick and easy.
Just follow the simple steps below:

First time users:

1. As a first time user you must register within the IP range of your institution/your institutions network.
2. Go to learning.bmj.com and click on 'Log in' and select 'Register now'.
3. Enter your email address and details including your profession, giving as much detail as possible. We'll personalise the BMJ Learning site with the details that you give us.
4. Once you submit your registration, you can return to the site to view your personal homepage and start accessing modules.

Existing users:

1. Once you have registered inside your institution, BMJ Learning will remember you and will allow you to access the website from any remote location.
2. Go to learning.bmj.com and select 'Log in'.
3. Enter the memorable username and password you chose during your initial registration process and click 'Sign in'.

If you would like further support please email support@bmj.com or contact your institution.
